

ON A SUMMER EVENING.
'Twas dark upon the balcony;
I knew not what I did.
The moon (maybe conveniently)
Behind a cloud was hid.
I only know, lured on by charms
Quite dear to any man,
I pressed a shirtwaist in my arms
And kissed a coat of tan.

DRIVES IT INTO HIDING

Vast Amount of Property Escaping Taxation.

Impossible to Force Men to Assess Some Kinds of Property Under the Present System.

The general property tax was put into effect in Kentucky partly because it was believed that under the old system a great deal of property in the shape of money, bonds, stocks, mortgages, lien notes and other evidences of credit escaped taxation. It was hoped that by a rigid system of assessment and inspection a greater amount of this class of property could be brought to light, greatly increasing the revenues of the state.

The system has succeeded in bringing some of this kind of property to light, but there is still an enormous amount of it that escapes taxation.

The general property tax, it should be remembered, decrees that the same tax must fall on all classes of property. Let us suppose a man, living in almost any town in the state, is the owner of a land note for $1,000, on which 6 per cent interest is paid him. In some of the towns in the state his combined town, county and state tax would be over $3; in most of them it would be between $2.50 and $3. Manifestly, a man will be very unwilling to give in for taxation a piece of property that yields him 6 per cent only, when by so reporting it he condemns himself to having to give up nearly half the income from that property to the tax collector.

Perjury or Confiscation.

But the greater part of property of this class does not pay as much as 6 per cent. A vast amount of this property held in the state, perhaps as much as half of it, is property held in trust for the benefit of widows and children who are not able to earn money themselves, but depend for their support upon the income from property that has been left them by the husband and father and which will be largely invested in aotes, stocks, bonds and this general class of property. In normal times much of this class of investment will not pay over 4 per cent, the income running from 4 to 5 1/2 per cent. If, now, the tax rate absorbs from 2 1/2 to 3 per cent, it will be readily seen that very little is left for the support of these helpless people.

The temptation to conceal property when the tax on it will absorb from one half to three-fourths of the income it yields is stronger than the normal man can resist, and as a rule he does not try to resist it in any state where this system of the general property tax prevails, and that is why the tax authorities of states are coming so generally to denounce it. In Kentucky the evasions of the tax on this class of property are enormous. In September, 1905, only $11,480,000 of bonds, only $1,438,195 of stock in corporations and only $13,046,837 of bank deposits was given in for taxation, although the banks and trust companies of the state contained in that year $93,500,000 of deposits. At the same time the assessors were able to find only $5,407,512 of money outside the banks, or a total of about $18,500,000 of money. That there should have been then only about $93,000,000 of deposits in the banks of the entire state of Kentucky is the most damning proof of the supreme economic folly of our system.

Effect on Value of Real Estate.

We may mark the secondary effect of this policy in the valuation of real estate. It takes capital and accompanying prosperity to enhance real estate values. In 1880 the assessed real estate valuation was $265,085,908, or $160 per capita. In 1890, before our new constitution with the present tax system went into effect, the valuation increased to $203 per capita. In 1900, after eight years of the new tax system, it had increased to $209—an increase of only $6 per capita. The total assessed wealth of the state in 1880 was $212.63 per capita. In 1890, just before the new constitution, it had increased to $275.80. From 1890 to 1906, with 14 years under the new tax system, it increased only to $293 per capita—an increase of less than $18 per capita in 16 years.

Under our old constitution, with all its imperfections, there was some latitude given to localities in the encouragement of industries. The new constitution adopted in 1891 abolished most of this, but did allow municipalities to give five years' exemption to new manufacturing concerns. The act putting this clause of the constitution into effect was not passed until 1898. The decade, then, from 1880 to 1890 illustrates the progress possible under the old liberal system; the decade from 1890 to 1900 illustrates the result of the narrow policy of the new constitution before partial exemption became effective, and the years since 1900 well show the result of the liberal policy of encouragement. Mark then the result: From 1880 to 1890, under a policy of encouragement, the capital employed in manufacturing in Kentucky increased 74.2 per cent. From 1890 to 1900, with all encouragement withdrawn and heavy taxes imposed, the capital invested in manufactures increased only 30.4 per cent. About 1900 the five-years' exemptions had been granted in many cities and towns, and from 1900 to 1905 the capital invested in manufactures in Kentucky increased 67.4 per cent.

MAN AND THE BETTING GAME.

He Who "Plays a System" at the Race Track Certain to Quit Loser.

Here is an interesting letter:

"I play the nags oaco in awhile. I think I have a pretty fair system and was just thinking of trying it when I ran across an article which caused me to hesitate. If a man sticks to his system, has control of himself and is not a hog, but satisfied with a modest wager, is there no chance of success? Do you think it impossible to win by a system? Is there any reason why a man cannot keep decent and still play the game?"

Ever since Diomed won the first derby in England system after system has been devised for "beating the races." No system—not a single one—has ever succeeded in the long run. It has been figured out that there are 27 chances to one against you always in a field of ten horses. The best system ever known is at the mercy of the betting ring. There are not bookmakers enough in the United States to lay against a system. Several years ago a man, started with a five-dollar bet, doubled it after each loss and returned to the original five dollars after each wining. For awhile he prospered amazingly, playing nothing but the favorite, but in the end he went broke.

If a man with a system could bet against the United States treasury he could win. At Sheepshead Bay 14 favorites lost in succession. The fifteenth started at odds of three to one and was an easy winner. Now, figure out the predicament of the man with the system. Starting with five dollars and doubling after each loss he found it necessary to go into the rig and bet the sum of $81,920. He stood then a loser of $81,945. If he could have bet on the fifteenth favorite he would have had at issue over $163,000. Now, anybody who knows the betting rig knows that it would be utterly impossible for a dozen Joo Voadigs to place practically $82,000 at three to one. But—if it could have been placed the system man would have won $246,000.

ACCELLENT SERVICES

Misses Hicks and Mitchell and Dr. Dye at Christian Church

At the Christian Church yesterday all the services were well attended and much enjoyed, especially at Sunday-school, the afternoon meeting and at night.

Miss Mitchell and Miss Hicks' talks were

Every Church was well represented during the afternoon service, and it is hoped in the near future to start a Teacher's Training Class consisting of all the schools of the city.

Miss Hicks' singing at night was so sweet and good, that it caused a stillness to fall over the entire audience that was akin to Heaven. Dr. Dye was fine and closed the day like a man of God, with the earnestness of a true Missionary.

Advice to the Cook Oyster Talks.

If you want your oyster stews to be good, you must first be sure that your oysters are good. Always use Seal-shipt Oysters and then you can be sure of their quality. All others are so full of stale water and foul "embalming" powders that they are apt to make the milk curdle.

Seal-shipt Oysters have come from the oyster-beds in a porcelain, enameled case, as clean and wholesome as any dish in your kitchen. They are sealed as soon as shucked and ice is packed around them—not in them.

Seal-shipt Oysters, cooked in any way, retain the delicious flavor of those just opened. They have the true salt-water tang. Served raw, it is impossible to tell that they have not been taken from the shell within an hour.

Demand Seal-shipt Oysters, if you want to be sure that you are serving pure food and not "doped" stuff.

The Court of Appeals recently affirmed the suit of Wilkinson, etc., vs. Rosser's Executor etc., taken up from this county, Chief Justice O'Rear handed down the following opinion—

Wills—Construction of—The one question upon this appeal is the construction of one phrase in decedent's will in which after making a number of devise, he provided that $3,000 only should be left to Mrs. Hattie Hopkins and in disposing of the residue he provided that it should go to his heirs at law according to the Kentucky law of descent and distribution. Held—That it is not the opinion of the Court that he intended to limit Mrs. Hopkins to the amount of the specific devise, the word "only" meant to limit her in the specific bequest to her and that it was intended that the residue of the estate should pass to those persons at the time of his death who were his nearest of kin under the statutes of descent and distribution.

Allan D. Cole, Esq., was the Attorney for Appellants, and Messrs. Sallee & Slattery for Appellees.
